WORKING FOR BAPID TRAVEIT. The bill for Rapid Transit came up for eration resterday in the Legislature at Albany, and was ordered to a third reading and recommitted. The sentiment of the Senate seems to be very favorable to Rapid Transit, and the prospect at the Albany centre of work for its promotion is

The slight obstruction placed in the way of the bill vesterday was due to side insper Manhattan Railroad and the New York Central Railroad interests led to some fenc ng by two or three Senators. One Senator felt that section 32 of the bill was a consion to the "L" roads.

The business of pushing Rapid Transit to a speedy consummation should not be hampered by involving with it considers tions directly favorable to the "L" roads or the New York Central, which need not be entertained at present. The single purpose should be to get Rapid Transit for New York as soon as possible, and to get it without any handleapping conditions.

The Rapid Transit Commissioners gave a and hearing yesterday to exponents of of the many suggestions which are thus brought to the notice of the Commissioners it would be an admirable thing if they could, by elimination and combination, discover the system combining the most advantages. They have enough to think about with all the vast schemes that are suggested to them, and they must think long and well,

Surrogate RANSOM has declared that the woman who contested the will of the late BRET RAY HAMILTON on the ground of being the widow of the deceased was never married to that gentleman, as at the time of the marriage ceremony between them she was the wife of Joseua Mann.

This puts the creature who shrouded he self to a widow's mourning garb, and thus masqueraded through the court in the light of a perjured adventuress entitled to no by whatever. The Surrogate's judgnt is one which the public will approve as warranted and necessitated by the trial. May Mrs. Joshua Mann now make her exit

Long English driving-costs, greatly worn by emark women, and patterned rigidly after London tailor-designs for men, are shown in melton cloths, of the varying shades of tan and gray. As is seen, they are severely plain garments, double-treasted and tr mined with stitchings only. Pronts are always loose, to tall straight from the bust, with roomy sleeves and rather tight-fitting backs. Three is the regulation number for pockets orna-menting the sides, and the wide, flat, velvet-faced collars are always deeply notohed. The approved hat for this awell contume is a small toque of the melton cloth, bordered with natural ofter, and further trammed with otter-head and big steel ornament. A big black silk kerchief, folded high over the chest, beavily stitched doubting gloves, and thick, solid driving boots are sold as correct accountements for women who hold the reins. (aaching-jackets are mere abbreviated reproductions of the driving-coat, are double-breasted and box-shaped, in similar shades, toing out short about the hips.

The Kendala, by the tye, will make their first appearance in Pitmburg next Monday.

A sad story of misguided energy on the part of a buriesque company that has been touring Ohio comes to hand. It appears that the giddy damas is of the organization believed that by distributing the bills themse ves in a certain den was highly original, but some of the re stricted town-people decided that it was un-seemly. The manager of the theatre at which the company was to play cancelled the date. The doors of the house were closed to the too unconventional organization, which was forced to open elsewhere.

Prof. Herrmann said yesterday that he did not intend to go to England and he did not intend to go to Australia. "What's the u-e?" he saked, with his affable, Mephistophelian smile. "I can do just as well here, and it is here that I would sooner be. I shall stay in New York until the latter part of February, when 'All the Comforts of Home' comes to my theatre. "

Apropos of "The School for Scandal," it is not generally known that a gran-idaughter of Richard Brinsley Sheridan is now upon the English stage. She is at present touring the Roglish provinces with Osmond Tearle's company.

And now everybody is talking of Miss May Robson, who has made such an unexpected hit n a small part in "Nerves" at the Lyceum. Many actreases would have turned up their handsome noses in disastin at the part, but it is an undisputent sact that actors and actreases leap into prominence just as frequently in apparently insignificant role, as in the more catentations efforts. Miss Robson has been a member of the Lycoum company for taree years, and this is the first chance she has held to appear. She was engaged seven years ago by Daniel Frohman when he was managin, the Maulson Equate Theatre. Miss Robon remained there under the A. M. Palmer regime and then joined her old manager.
